

10 Essential Plane Etiquette Tips That Will Make Your Flight Experience Better Than Ever

The Etiquette Guide to Sleeping Next to Strangers on Flights

British Airways surveyed travelers across five countries to resolve the biggest plane etiquette issues facing fliers today.

Does the Shoe Fit?

59% say it's ok to remove your shoes

Americans are less likely to think removing your shoes is ok (60%) vs. Brits (78%)

87% say it's a no-no to remove your socks

Armrest-ling

67% of travelers say proper etiquette is to take one armrest and leave the other

Middle armrest ownership? 45% of U.S. and U.K. travelers agree it's whoever gets there first

French travelers are nearly 2x as likely to avoid the armrest

When it comes to flying, following proper plane etiquette can go a long way in ensuring a pleasant and comfortable experience for all passengers. Whether you are a frequent flyer or someone who only flies occasionally, these 10 essential tips will help you navigate the unwritten rules of air travel, making your journey hassle-free and enjoyable.

1. Arrive on Time

One of the most crucial aspects of plane etiquette is arriving at the airport on time. Ensure you have checked in online and have all the necessary documents ready. This will not only save you from a stressful rush but also respect the time of fellow passengers.

2. Mind Your Carry-On Baggage

When it comes to carry-on baggage, ensure it complies with the airline's rules and regulations. Avoid bringing oversized or too many bags that could inconvenience other passengers. Store your bags in the overhead bins properly, and if you notice they won't fit, kindly inform a flight attendant before causing any delays.

3. Be Polite and Courteous

Politeness goes a long way in creating a pleasant atmosphere during the flight. Be courteous to your fellow passengers as well as the flight crew. Saying "please" and "thank you," and refraining from using offensive language will make your flight experience more enjoyable for everyone.

4. Keep Your Noise Level Moderate

Noise is a common issue on flights. To respect others, keep your voice at a moderate level during conversations and avoid speaking loudly on your phone. Additionally, keep entertainment devices at a volume that won't disturb neighboring passengers.

5. Respect Personal Space

Even though the space can be limited on a plane, it is essential to respect everyone's personal space. Avoid leaning on or hogging the armrests, and be mindful of reclining your seat in a way that doesn't invade the space of the person behind you. A little extra consideration can go a long way!

6. Control Strong Odors

Lingering odors can be a bother on a crowded plane. Be mindful of wearing strong perfumes or colognes that could potentially cause discomfort to others. Additionally, avoid eating overly pungent or smelly foods during the flight.

7. Keep the Lavatory Clean

When using the lavatory, leave it in the same or better condition than you found it. This simple act of cleanliness shows respect for others who will be using it after you.

8. Follow Seat Etiquette

If you are seated in the middle or window seat, allowing the person seated on the aisle to exit first is considered good plane etiquette. This allows for a smoother and more organized deplaning process.

9. Avoid Excessive Drinking

While it's okay to enjoy a drink or two during your flight, excessive drinking can lead to disruptive behavior and inconvenience others. Drink responsibly and be aware of your limits.

10. Be Mindful of Children

If you are flying with children, it's important to manage their behavior and keep them entertained without causing disturbance to other passengers. Pack snacks and activities to occupy them during the flight, and be prepared to address their needs promptly.

By following these simple yet essential tips, you can ensure a more pleasant and comfortable flight experience for yourself and your fellow passengers. Practicing proper plane etiquette will help create an atmosphere of respect, consideration, and overall harmony throughout your journey.

Remember, a positive travel experience starts with being a respectful and conscious passenger. Happy travels!
