The Symbolist Movement and Somov's Influences

Somov's work is deeply rooted in the symbolist movement, which emerged in the late 19th century as a reaction against the realism of the time. Symbolist artists aimed to convey emotions, dreams, and spiritual experiences through their art, often using allegory and symbolism.

Somov drew inspiration from a variety of sources, including the works of Old Masters such as Watteau, Fragonard, and Renoir. He admired their use of color, light, and composition, merging their influence with his own distinctive vision.

The Fascination with Masquerade

One of the recurrent themes in Somov's paintings is the masquerade. He was captivated by the mystique and theatrical atmosphere surrounding masked balls, often portraying elegant figures in lavish costumes.

These masquerade scenes not only provided Somov with an opportunity to showcase his brilliant handling of different textures and colors, but they also allowed him to explore the idea of hidden identities and the facade that people often present to the world.

Embodying the Aristocratic Lifestyle

Somov's paintings also serve as a window into the sumptuous world of the Russian aristocracy during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. His subjects often depict wealthy, sophisticated individuals engaged in elegant leisure activities or intimate gatherings.

Through his art, Somov captures the refinement of this privileged social class, giving the viewer a glimpse into their opulent lifestyles, fashion, and extravagant interiors.
