8 Useful Tips to Maintain Your Motorcycle

- 1 Change the Engine Oil

Changing the oil regularly is necessary to keep the engine free from problems. Refer to the owner's manual for when to change the oil. The higher your mileage, the more frequent your oil changes need to be.
- 2 Lubricate the Chain

The chain is part of the drivetrain that transmits power from the engine to your motorcycle's rear wheel. Regularly cleaning and lubricating the chain (and the sprockets) keeps your motorcycle running smooth.
- 3 Maintain Tyre Pressure

Maintaining the right air pressure prolongs tyre life. Improperly inflated tyres directly impact ride quality and fuel economy. Always check the air pressure before you ride, i.e. when the tyres are still cold.
- 4 Clean the Air Filter

The air filter helps your engine breathe. Thus, it's important to regularly clean or replace your motorcycle's air filter. If your mileage is high or you live in a dusty place, the air filter should be replaced more often.
- 5 Top up the Coolant

If your motorcycle's engine is liquid-cooled, check the coolant levels and top up if required. The coolant keeps the engine's temperature under check. Inadequate coolant levels can cause serious engine damage.
- 6 Check Brake Pads & Fluid

Your motorcycle's disc brakes use brake pads and brake fluid/oil to generate the required braking force. Worn out brake pads and insufficient levels of brake fluid are a huge risk to your safety.
- 7 Inspect the Fuel Filter

Make sure the fuel filter is clean as a clogged filter can cause starting troubles in your motorcycle. Also, check the fuel lines for any damage and if you see any signs of cracking, replace them immediately.
- 8 Wash the Bike Regularly

Regular washing helps keep your motorcycle clean and prevents impurities like dust and dirt from entering its inner parts. Washing also prevents rusting and helps maintain the bodywork's shine.
