The Encounter with Love

It was on a balmy summer evening, as the sun painted the sky in hues of orange and pink, that Andria's path crossed with that of a charismatic traveler named Lucas. Lucas, an artist seeking inspiration in Andros's natural wonders, was instantly mesmerized by Andria's ethereal beauty and enchanting personality. Their encounter would mark the beginning of a passionate love story that would leave an indelible mark on both their lives.

A Love Blossoming in Nature's Embrace

As their love blossomed, Andria and Lucas found solace in the natural wonders of Andros. They would often embark on long hikes together, exploring hidden treasures such as the lush green valleys of Achla and the mesmerizing waterfalls of Pythara. These experiences were not just moments of awe; they were also a source of inspiration for Lucas's artwork, which depicted the raw beauty of the island.

Challenges and Triumphs

However, no love story is complete without its fair share of challenges. Andria had always dreamed of traveling the world, experiencing different cultures, and expanding her horizons. Yet, her deep-rooted connection to Andros constantly tugged at her heartstrings, making it difficult for her to leave. Lucas, torn between his love for Andria and his artistic ambitions, faced a similar internal struggle.

As the couple navigated their desires and aspirations, they realized the importance of compromise. Lucas would create artworks that reflected the essence of Andros, keeping their love alive even if Andria chose to embark on occasional journeys. Over time, their relationship grew stronger, and their individual pursuits complemented each other, forming a bond that transcended physical presence.

An Everlasting Legacy

The love story of Andria and Lucas lives on in the hearts of the people of Andros. Today, Lucas's artwork can be found in art galleries across the island, serving as a reminder of their love and the magic of Andros. Andria, despite her explorations of new horizons, remains a beloved figure amongst the locals, her adventurous spirit and love for her homeland inspiring future generations.

Publius Terentius Afer is better known to us as the Roman playwright, Terence.

Much of his life, especially the early part, is either unknown or has conflicting sources and accounts.

His birth date is said to be either 185 BC or a decade earlier: 195 BC. His place of birth is variously listed as in, or, near Carthage, or, in Greek Italy to a woman taken to Carthage as a slave. It is suggested that he lived in the territory of the Libyan tribe that the Romans called Afri, near Carthage, before being brought to Rome as a slave. Probability suggests that it was there, in North Africa, several decades after the destruction of Carthage by the Romans in 146 BC, at the end of the Punic Wars, that Terence spent his early years.

One reliable fact is that he was sold to P. Terentius Lucanus, a Roman senator, who had him educated and, impressed by his literary talents, freed him.

These writing talents were to ensure his legacy as a playwright down through the millennia. His comedies, partially adapted from Greek plays of the late phases of Attic Comedy, were performed for the first time around 170–160 BC. All six of the plays he has known to have written have survived.

Indeed, thanks to his simple conversational Latin, which was both entertaining and direct, Terence's works were heavily used by monasteries and convents during the Middle Ages and The Renaissance. Scribes often learned Latin through the copious copying of Terence's texts. Priests and nuns often learned to speak Latin through re-enactment of Terence's plays. Although his plays often dealt with pagan material, the quality and distinction of his language promoted the copying and preserving of his text by the church. This preservation enabled his work to influence a wide spectrum of later Western drama.

When he was 25 (or 35 depending on which year of birth you ascribe too), Terence travelled to Greece but never returned. It has long been assumed that he died at some point during the journey.

Of his own family nothing is known, except that he fathered a daughter and left a small but valuable estate just outside Rome.

His most famous quotation reads: "Homo sum, humani nihil a me alienum puto", or "I am human, and I think nothing human is alien to me."
