Part of the children's unicorn book series. Unicorn Jazz, a Mom's Choice Award Winning book. In this book Jazz starts off feeling a bit shy and unwelcomed after she moved to a new land. The idea of being unique and celebrating differences is a lesson learned for Jazz with the help of her new flying friend, Woof the Crow.

He showed her how to appreciate being different from everyone else and why she should not hide or change who she is. By the end book one, with her head proudly held high, Jazz made more friends to play with, not by trying to fit in with everyone else, but just by being her beautiful happy self.

Bee-ing Happy with Unicorn Jazz and friends is part of the Unicorn picture books for children series, Unicorn Jazz series, by author Lisa Caprelli and colorfully illustrated with hand-drawn art by Davey Villalobos.

The main teachings from the first book on feeling openly content with your own uniqueness, belonging and believing in others is brought to life in full color pages in this second children's book series. Bee-ing Happy with Unicorn Jazz and Friends shows how kids can positively involve themselves socially through illustrating that the little things in our individual day-to-day lives do matter and that each new day is another chance to make yourself happy by helping another.

Whether it is giving someone a self-made gift, spending time with a loved one, or even bringing them in on your favorite hobbies, this book shows how each and every considerate social gesture adds a spark of value and light to the person on the receiving end. Emotional intelligence for children, this book focuses on portraying that although each person is unique and enjoys things in their own way, we also share the same essential values of what happiness means to us - and that emotion is radiantly captured in the illustrations of all the characters within each page. Along with a heartfelt lesson on self-expression and the importance of bonding and togetherness, Bee-ing Happy with Unicorn Jazz and Friends also includes several educational fun facts, coloring pages.

The 10 Questions were a great bonus for me and my child. We also loved "finding" Bee Happy on every page as a game. Bravo for another well thought out and entertaining book about happiness!
