Are You in the Market for a Witty, Insightful Community Dive into the Eccentric and Exciting World of the Theater?

Must the show always go on? How do you feel about blind casting? What one piece of theatrical memorabilia would you most like to own?

Have you ever thought about how YOU might answer each of these questions? Each week, for nearly two years, one theater aficionado and his diverse circle of friends have taken to social media to offer their thoughts on these and other (sometimes) burning issues. The most memorable comments—some surprising, some poignant, some hilarious—have been compiled here, combining for an insightful look into the always intriguing world of the theater. Interwoven throughout the questions and answers is the compelling true story of how a single night at the theater changed a man's life forever, along with some one-of-a-kind encounters with the likes of Harold Prince and Ethel Merman. Who could ask for anything more?

Here's what some of Mark's readers have been saying about the book:

“The Theater and I is a book for every theater lover to compare and contrast their own stories with those in the book. We all share this common love and it's what brings us together.”

Stephan, Amazon

“The thought of writing a book based on social media polls is theatrical in its own right. Mark Lord has transformed his obvious love for all things theater into a literary offering for anyone who loves or aspires to know about the wonder that is stage performance. This book is written from a very personal and at the same time profoundly universal view of every aspect of theater. Bravo Mr. Lord, BRAVO! (and Encore, if you feel so inspired!)”

Adiya Johnson, Amazon

“It's heartening to know that there are so many out there who love the theater as much as I do. THE THEATER AND I is a hug for theater lovers. It was thrilling to have been a part of this book and to have met many other aficionados. KUDOS, Mark!”

Michele Newmark, Amazon
