Raymond Carroll is the author of 'Only Raising Dust On The Road' – a serialized novel set in Thailand. A Scotsman, born in East Kilbride, Glasgow in 1970, he is married to Sunan – a Thai national, and has two Thai/Scottish children: a girl (16), and a boy (12). He currently resides in Scotland but previously lived and worked in Thailand for two years between 2002 and 2004.

Thailand Travel Tales is a collection of short travel stories published after a recent trip to Thailand in 2016; the stories were originally published on <http://thai-nomad.com> and are written in a style that offers first-timers to Thailand information, ideas, and advice, as well as sharp and original story-telling.

The Stories are as follows:

I Bangkok – A Day Out In The 'Big Mango'

II Killing Time At 'Khao Din Zoo' (Dusit Zoo)

III Big Changes In Pattaya – Piss Tests And Motorbikes

IV Buriram – chilling out in Ban Koksuan, Isaan, northeastern Thailand

V Sleeper-train, Bangkok to Surat Thani

VI Koh Samui - Feet Up 'n' F#ck em

VII Going Native In Koh Phi Phi

VIII Pattaya – Goodbye Action Cam

Note: Certain paragraphs (not many) in this book – compiled from previously published short stories (essays) from Raymond's travel blog, appear in his novel:

'Only Raising Dust On The Road'

I was unsure whether or not to publish my novel and used certain paragraphs from it in some of these short stories compiled from my Thailand Travel blog. I was then encouraged to publish my novel and done so without changing either the novel or the short stories because I think the paragraphs I am referring to fit both pieces of writing and I didn't want to lose anything in either the novel or the short stories; I then published the short stories in this book as a collection of short stories and the stories remain unchanged.
