PLAN C

EARTH BOY

This time, the Osmids have created another, better type of boy. Kram (did I say that the Osmids have no imagination?) has an Earth Body and an Earth Mind with quite a lot of the learned facts about Earth in it. And he is connected to the Super Brain which can evaluate and explain the things he doesn't yet know. A great plan! But ...

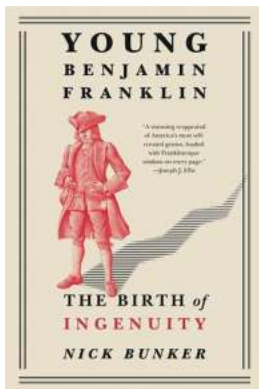

Once again, the Osmids have failed to grasp the complexities of life on Earth. To control Kram, they need him to be near a powerful radio mast. The fact that this new 'Pagan Type' mast is in the grounds of Kentwell Hall means nothing to them. Nor do they realize that Kentwell holds their famous historical re-enactment there every summer. Poor Kram wakes up in a Tudor World - something he has definitely not been prepared for – and it is only his friendship with Cat that helps him to survive there.

It also teaches him about love and relationships so that, when he eventually returns to A-os, he takes something of Earth with him.
