My Story as an American Au Pair in the Loire Valley (French Illusions Book 1)

A futile lie. She doesn't speak French. She knew she would be caught.

It's 1979 and twenty-one-year-old Linda needs to learn a language fast in order to fulfill her dreams.

Broke yet determined, she pushes aside feelings of guilt, pretends to speak French on her application and secures a nanny position for a wealthy family in France.

Will Linda be able to redeem herself once she arrives at the Château de Montclair? How will she communicate with the family, especially the children?

When she meets Adam, a handsome young student, her life becomes more complicated – much more complicated.

You'll find this unusual story, based on Linda's diary, even more appealing because it's true.
