The beautiful dolphin motifs, intricately hand-painted on the bus exteriors, instantly catch the eye and spark curiosity among passersby. The patterns vary in color, representing the vibrant marine life, and are meticulously arranged to create a harmonious spectacle.

These captivating dolphin patterns not only add a touch of elegance to the city's transportation system but also contribute to the vibrant artistic landscape of London. It is truly a testament to the city's commitment to merging functionality with aesthetic appeal, making the daily commute a visually stimulating experience.

Unveiling the Inspiration: Dolphins and London's Connection

Why dolphins? The inspiration behind the Dancing Dolphin Patterns comes from the city's history and the symbolic significance of dolphins in various cultures.

London, renowned for its maritime heritage, is surrounded by waterways, including the mighty River Thames.

In numerous mythologies and folklore, dolphins have been associated with intelligence, grace, and protection, making them a fitting symbol for a city that values these qualities. Additionally, dolphins are known for their sociability and community-oriented behavior, mirroring London's diverse and interconnected society.

The incorporation of dolphins into the design of the London Plaxton President Buses celebrates the city's rich connection with the water and encapsulates its fascinating history, cultural heritage, and inclusive nature.

Transforming the Commute: A Visual Delight for Everyone

The presence of the Dancing Dolphin Patterns on the London Plaxton President Buses transforms the daily commute into a vibrant visual delight. Passengers, young and old, are greeted by these lively marine creatures as they step onto the bus, breathing life into an otherwise conventional journey.

Children, especially, find these whimsical designs fascinating and enchanting, sparking their imagination and creating unforgettable memories. It is not unusual to witness little faces pressed against bus windows, eyes sparkling with joy, as they embark on their unique "dolphin adventure."

Moreover, the dolphin-patterned seats inside the bus add an extra touch of magic and elegance. Passengers can sit back and relax on these comfortable seats, surrounded by a whimsical marine-themed ambiance.

The Impact: Spreading Joy, Inspiring Creativity

Beyond the visual appeal, the Dancing Dolphin Patterns have brought about a positive impact on London's community fabric. The cheerful patterns evoke a sense of joy, creating a more pleasant atmosphere for both passengers and transportation personnel.

The fascinating designs have even inspired local artists and designers to incorporate marine-themed elements in various creative projects, such as street art, fashion, and interior decor. The influence of the Dancing Dolphin Patterns can be seen throughout the city, as London embraces its newfound fascination with marine life.

The Future: Embracing Innovation and Artistry

London's Plaxton President Buses with their mesmerizing Dancing Dolphin Patterns have captured the hearts of the city's residents and visitors. This unique blend of innovative transportation design and artistic expression is a testament to London's commitment to embracing both functionality and visual appeal.

Looking ahead, it is certain that London will continue to surprise and inspire with its creative approach to urban aesthetics. What other artistic wonders are waiting to be unveiled? Only time will tell, but one thing is for sure - it will be a visual feast for the eyes.

Plaxton launched the President model in 1997 but construction of the type did not commence until 1999. DAF was the first chassis manufacture to team up with Plaxton, offering a product on the DB250LF chassis. Dennis closely followed with the Trident, and Volvo with the B7TL. The latter chassis proved to be most popular on the President. Large orders for the President were received from First, Go-Ahead London, Metroliner, London United and Arriva London. Each operator had their preference to the chassis underneath the President bodywork. In 2001 Plaxton became part of the Transbus International consortium, and the President model was built alongside the ALX400, a model that eventually replaced the President in 2005.
