Janette Norton, a seasoned traveler with a penchant for exploration, was captivated by the allure of Norway. She embarked on a journey to discover the untouched beauty of the country and unravel its hidden treasures.

The Journey Begins: Exploring the Fjords

Norton's adventure in Norway began with a visit to the majestic fjords. These deep, narrow inlets carved by glaciers offer a surreal experience. With their towering cliffs, crystal-clear waters, and cascading waterfalls, the fjords are a sight to behold.

One of the most stunning fjords that Norton explored was Geirangerfjord. Surrounded by snow-capped mountains, this UNESCO World Heritage site is a feast for the eyes. Norton couldn't resist hopping on a boat to see the fjord up close and marvel at its beauty. The serenity of the fjord left her feeling awe-inspired and grateful for the opportunity to witness such natural wonders.

Into the Norwegian Wilderness: Hiking and Nature Immersion

For Norton, exploring Norway meant immersing herself in its wild, untouched nature. She embarked on numerous hiking trails, traversing through dense forests, crossing babbling streams, and climbing rugged mountains. Norway offers a vast network of hiking trails suitable for all levels of expertise, making it a haven for adventure seekers.

One of the highlights of Norton's hiking adventures was the iconic Trolltunga. This natural rock formation juts out horizontally over a scenic valley, offering breathtaking views of the surrounding landscape. The challenging hike to Trolltunga rewarded Norton with an awe-inspiring vista she will never forget.

But Norway isn't just about mountains and fjords; the country boasts diverse wildlife as well. Norton had the opportunity to spot reindeer, elk, and even the elusive Arctic fox during her nature expeditions. The encounters with these magnificent creatures added an extra layer of wonder to her journey.

Exploring the Vibrant Cities: Oslo and Bergen

While Norway's natural beauty is its main draw, its cities have their own unique charm. Norton explored the vibrant cities of Oslo and Bergen to experience the rich history, cultural offerings, and modern amenities.

In Oslo, Norton wandered through the Vigeland Sculpture Park, a must-visit destination for art enthusiasts. This vast outdoor sculpture museum houses over 200 sculptures created by Gustav Vigeland, showcasing his talent and vision. Norton found herself mesmerized by the artistic brilliance and the stories behind each sculpture.

In Bergen, Norton explored the UNESCO-listed Bryggen Wharf, a historic waterfront district that has retained its charm since the Middle Ages. The colorful wooden buildings, cobblestone alleyways, and vibrant atmosphere made Norton feel like she had stepped back in time. Exploring the small boutiques and enjoying local cuisine in Bergen added a delightful touch to her Norwegian adventure.

The Northern Lights: A Mystical Dance in the Sky

No trip to Norway is complete without witnessing the mesmerizing Northern Lights, also known as the Aurora Borealis. Norton was fortunate enough to experience this magical phenomenon during her visit.

Heading to the northern part of Norway, Norton found herself in the ideal location to witness the lights dancing across the sky. On an international scale, Oslo is a pretty small capital but, with just over 500,000 people, it's Norway's biggest city by far. More than 10% of the country's total population lives here; if we count people in the entire Oslofjord area in the summertime, it amounts to one third of the population in Norway.

What makes Oslo unique is its location. The Oslofjord links the city with the sea to the south. In the other three directions you find mountains, lakes and forests within easy reach from the city center. This means that wherever you are in Oslo you have natural beauty just around the corner. In the winter, you can go from the shopping areas downtown to the ski slopes in just 20 minutes. The summers offer even more opportunities as both Marka and the Oslofjord with its islands are popular destinations for the people of Oslo and its many visitors.

Norway has a population of just over 4½ million people and has one of the lowest population densities in Europe with 12 people per square km.

Oslo, the capital and biggest city, has more than 500,000 inhabitants and the Oslofjord area is home to nearly one third of the nation's population if you count all the summer residents. Bergen is the second-biggest city in Norway with 230,000 people. Trondheim comes in third with 140,000.

Fish is commonly found on dining tables all over Scandinavia, especially along the coastal areas. In Norway, since 75% of the population lives on or near the coast, many Norwegians take eating fish on an almost daily basis as much for granted as eating bread.

The coastline is 2,650 km long and, if you count the fjords, an incredible 25,150 km (nearly 10 times as long). Norway has thousands of islands, large and small, and, if they are all taken into account as well, the total coastline would be 83,000 km.

The spectacular, scenic fjords are long, deep and usually surrounded by mountains. Since most of the country's 4½ million people live in urban areas, it leaves most of the country uninhabited. This makes for abundant wildlife in the beautiful mountains, forests, lakes, and the famous fjords. Half the country's area is above the timberline while 25% is covered by forest. The highest mountain, and the highest peak in Scandinavia, is Mount Galdhøpiggen (8,100 feet), while the longest fjord is Sognefjorden (126 miles), the longest in the world.

These are just a few excerpts from this detailed guide to every aspect of Norway for the visitor. Where to dine, where to stay, what to see and do - it's all here. This information is also included in our much larger Adventure Guide to Scandinavia.
