A Peek into the Literary Delights: Highlights from The Best American Essays 2019

One of the standout essays in this collection is "Womanhood: Four Variations" by Casey Rocheteau. In this deeply personal and insightful piece, Rocheteau explores the complexities of gender and identity. With raw emotions and poetic language, the author takes readers on a journey through their experiences, connecting with the shared struggles and triumphs of womanhood.

Another essay that leaves a lasting impact is "The Long Run" by Flannery O'Connor, which delves into the author's struggles with chronic illness. O'Connor's musings on life, mortality, and the pursuit of happiness resonate with readers on a profound level. It is a testament to the power of personal storytelling and its ability to reflect universal truths.

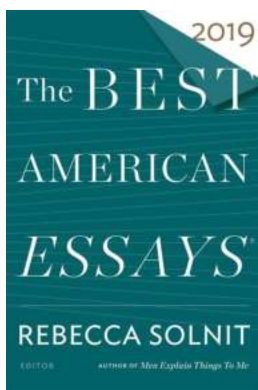

"Through the Glass Darkly" by Jia Tolentino offers a sharp and incisive critique of the internet culture and its impact on society. Exploring themes of obsession, self-image, and social media, Tolentino's essay prompts readers to question their own relationship with the digital world. It serves as a compelling reminder of the complexities and consequences of our online interactions.

A collection of the year’s best essays selected by Robert Atwan and guest editor Rebecca Solnit.

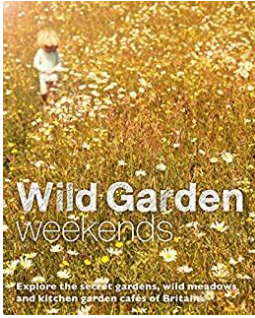

“Essays are restless literature, trying to find out how things fit together, how we can think about two things at once, how the personal and the public can inform each other, how two overtly dissimilar things share a secret kinship,” contends Rebecca Solnit in her . From lost languages and extinct species to life-affirming cosmologies and literary myths that offer cold comfort, the personal and the public collide in The Best American Essays 2019. This searching, necessary collection grapples with what has preoccupied us in the past year—sexual politics, race, violence, invasive technologies—and yet, in reading for the book, Solnit also found “how discovery can be a deep pleasure.”

The Best American Essays 2019 includes Michelle Alexander, Jabari Asim, Alexander Chee, Masha Gessen, Jean Guerrero, Elizabeth Kolbert, Terese Marie Mailhot, Jia Tolentino, and others.
