The Good Audition Guides: Your Go-To Resource

The Good Audition Guides, a reputable collection of scene books, offers a comprehensive selection of contemporary duologues for two men. With their expert Audition curation, these guides provide actors with solid material that not only challenges their skills but also resonates with directors and casting agents.

1. "Inherit the Wind" by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee

Based on the infamous Scopes Monkey Trial, "Inherit the Wind" offers a powerful two men duologue that explores the ideological clash between science and religion. This intense scene showcases the intellectual battle between a defense attorney and a prosecutor, allowing actors to display their dramatic range and emotional depth.

2. "Glengarry Glen Ross" by David Mamet

"Glengarry Glen Ross" features a gripping duologue between two real estate agents caught up in a high-stakes sales competition. This scene is perfect for actors who enjoy delivering quick-witted dialogue with sharp intensity. The characters' desperation and ambition create a tension-filled atmosphere, making it an excellent choice for auditions.

3. "True West" by Sam Shepard

"True West" offers a fascinating exploration of sibling rivalry. This duologue between two estranged brothers delves into the complexities of family relationships and the struggle for identity. With its blend of dark humor and underlying tension, this scene allows actors to showcase their versatility and emotional range.

4. "American Buffalo" by David Mamet

In "American Buffalo," two small-time crooks plan a heist that goes awry. This gritty, dialogue-driven duologue presents actors with the challenge of portraying characters with flawed morality and questionable motives. The sharp, profanity-laden exchanges require precise delivery and timing, displaying actors' command over Mamet's distinct style.

5. "Farragut North" by Beau Willimon

Set against the backdrop of a political campaign, "Farragut North" captures the essence of power, ambition, and betrayal. This gripping duologue between two campaign strategists provides actors with an opportunity to showcase their ability to convey complex emotions and the cost of pursuing success at any cost.
