One crucial aspect of the Harding Family Method is the integration of learning into everyday life. Instead of relying solely on traditional schooling, the family incorporates educational experiences into their daily routine. Whether it's discussing current events during meals or embarking on educational excursions during vacations, the children are constantly exposed to new knowledge and critical thinking.

Structured Learning Environment

While the Harding Family Method emphasizes creating a stimulating environment, it also recognizes the importance of structure and discipline in achieving academic goals. The family adheres to a strict daily schedule that includes dedicated study time, extracurricular activities, and ample breaks for rest and relaxation. By maintaining a consistent routine, the children develop excellent time management skills and the ability to prioritize their responsibilities.

Furthermore, the Harding family continuously engages in open communication with their children, allowing them to express their interests and concerns regarding their education. This hands-on approach fosters a strong parent-child relationship based on trust, support, and encouragement. The family encourages self-motivation and independence while providing guidance and guidance along the way.

Utilizing Technology and Online Resources

In today's digital age, the Harding family recognizes the immense potential technology offers in enhancing the learning experience. They leverage various online resources, educational software, and interactive platforms to supplement their children's education. Whether it's virtual field trips, online courses, or educational games, the children are exposed to a wealth of educational opportunities beyond the traditional classroom.

Additionally, the Harding family encourages the responsible use of technology by establishing clear guidelines and limitations. They understand the importance of striking a balance between screen time and other activities to ensure their children receive a well-rounded education.

Encouraging a Passion for Extracurricular Activities

In addition to academic pursuits, the Harding family places great importance on extracurricular activities. They believe that well-rounded children are better equipped for success in college and beyond. The children are encouraged to explore various hobbies and interests such as sports, arts, music, and community service. This encourages the development of essential skills such as teamwork, discipline, creativity, and leadership.

The family actively supports their children in their extracurricular endeavors, whether it's attending sports games, nurturing artistic abilities, or volunteering alongside them. This active involvement demonstrates the Harding family's commitment to holistic development and preparing their children for a balanced college experience.

The Harding Family Method offers a comprehensive and innovative approach to preparing children for college at an early age. By cultivating a love for learning, creating a structured environment, utilizing technology, and encouraging a passion for extracurricular activities, the Harding family has achieved remarkable results.

While each child's journey will be unique, adopting elements of the Harding Family Method can undoubtedly set them on a path towards academic excellence and college readiness. It serves as a reminder that with dedication, support, and the right approach, it is possible to empower children to reach their full potential and succeed in higher education.

“A straightforward, practical guide that takes an anyone-can-do-this approach” (Kirkus Reviews), The Brainy Bunch outlines the Harding family’s well-rounded method for producing college-ready kids by age twelve.

Having six out of ten kids go to college is no small feat on its own, but having six kids in college before their teens—that’s nothing short of incredible. “Never judgmental and not without humor,” this “fascinating read” (Library Journal) is Kip and Mona Lisa Harding’s story of producing exactly those extraordinary results. Kip and Mona Lisa are parents to an engineer (who earned her BS in mathematics at seventeen), an architect (who became the youngest member of the American Institute of Architects), a Navy physician (who earned her biology degree at seventeen), an entrepreneur (who earned an MS in computer science at seventeen), a sixteen-year-old college senior studying music theory and performance, a thirteen-year-old Middle Ages scholar with the highest average in his college class, and four others who are following fast in their siblings’ footsteps! No wonder the family is so used to being asked: How did you do it?

In an “impressive” (Publishers Weekly), down-to-earth narrative, Kip and Mona Lisa reveal with warmth and humility the strategies behind their family’s amazing educational accomplishments. Filled with daily regimens, advice for providing children with fulfilling experiences that go beyond the home, and tips for making the transition to college, theirs is an inspirational real-life success story that anyone can achieve—whether you homeschool your children or not.

Featured on the Today show and FOX, The Brainy Bunch is uplifting and ultimately relatable proof of what any family can accomplish through dedication, love, faith, and hard work.
