Knit and Purl Stitches: The Bread and Butter of Knitting

Knit and purl stitches are the essential components of any knitting project. Knit stitches create the familiar "v" shape on the right side of your work, while purl stitches form horizontal bumps. By combining these stitches, you'll achieve various patterns and textures in your dinosaur knits.

Binding Off: Finishing Your Masterpiece

Once you've completed your knitting project, the binding off technique is used to close the stitches and secure the work. It ensures that your creation won't unravel and gives it a polished look. Practice this technique to achieve neat and smooth edges on your dinosaur knits.
