What if the history you've learned isn't really true?

Ancient manuscripts.

Antediluvian knowledge.

Age-old secrets.

Converging into a shocking and deadly present danger.

A boxed set of three full-length Amazon bestselling novels, In the Beginning, Irrefutable Proof and Incarnate.

Not fast paced or action packed, these mystery/sci-fi stories contain an alternative history that will have you second guess what you've believed up until now and wonder if these things could be true.

In the Beginning: Book I - Justin Dickerson, wife, mother of three, sister of seven, is a Biblical archaeologist. She has excavated sites all over the world to prove that the stories of the bible are true. At the 50th Jubilee of the finding of the Dead Sea Scrolls she discovers the existence of 2,000 year old manuscripts that set on a collision course toward the possibility that the history that man has been taught may not be what really happened "In the Beginning."

Irrefutable Proof: Book II - Justin Dickerson is reluctant to share the secret of the ancient manuscripts she found with the world. To quell her fears she looks to the Voynich Manuscript, a 600 year old codex, that may just have what she needs to back up her claims. She's afraid that without it her claims she'll be subject to ridicule. And not just her, but her family as well. But it's more than ridicule that Justin needs to fear. It's her life that's in danger as she searches for her "Irrefutable Proof."

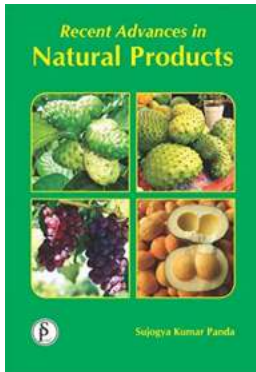

Incarnate: Book III Justin decides to give what information she has on mankind's origin to the United States government, but before she can, her daughter, Logan, an aspiring archaeologist, needs her help in the jungles of Belize. What Justin finds there, just might be a Maya connection to the migration story she is trying to rid herself of. And the most important lesson of all is revealed to her - human nature, instills greed and arrogance driving in man a burning desire to be God "Incarnate."
