Amsterdam is famous for its 165 canals, and exploring them should top your list of activities. You can take a boat tour or even rent your own boat to navigate through the labyrinth of waterways. Don't forget to capture some memorable photos!

2. Visit the Van Gogh Museum

Art enthusiasts cannot miss a visit to the famous Van Gogh Museum. It houses an extensive collection of Van Gogh's masterpieces, including his iconic Sunflowers and The Starry Night. Immerse yourself in the world of this legendary artist.

3. Experience Anne Frank House

Explore the secret annex where Anne Frank and her family hid during World War II. The Anne Frank House offers a poignant and thought-provoking experience, providing insight into the horrors of the Holocaust.

19. Discover the Neighbourhood of Jordaan

Stroll down the narrow streets of the Jordaan neighborhood, lined with beautiful houses, quaint cafes, and trendy boutiques. Enjoy the local vibe while sipping coffee at a cozy cafe or browsing unique shops for souvenirs.

20. Immerse in Local Favorite Foods

No trip to Amsterdam is complete without trying some Dutch delicacies. Indulge in cheese tasting at one of the city's many cheese stores, savor mouthwatering stropwafels, and don't forget to try the famous herring from a street-side stand.

Amsterdam offers a plethora of exciting activities and attractions for every traveler. Whether you're interested in art, history, architecture, or simply immersing yourself in the local culture, this city has something to offer. Make sure

Amsterdam is known for being an open-minded city, with a very liberal view on soft drugs and prostitution, but it is also known for other things.

Amsterdam is very cultural, and has many museums and attractions, such as the famous Van Gogh museum, and the Rijksmuseum, but you can also find lesser known gems here.

The historical city center of Amsterdam is very beautiful with canal after canal full of old houses fighting for place on the sides of them.

The locals are friendly and open towards visitors, and, if you only ask, will be very happy to help you find your way, or recommend somewhere you should see.

Of course, Amsterdam is one of the top biking cities in the world, so hire yourself a bike from one of the many cycle shops, and experience Amsterdam as a local.
