Cuba On the Road

A Literary Road movie

We checked into Havana's legendary Hotel Nacional, the place of mafia, gangsters and bloody assaults. We visited Hemingway's bars, the revolution square, the presidential palace and Che Guevara's grave site in Santa Clara. In between we went to music places and experienced the real life of Havana. Not to mention the harbour promenade Malecón, which is absolutely magical in the sunset. We drank rum, smoked cigars and rode in old American cars. It was a journey back to the 1950's.

Then we drove around Cuba in a car of our own for 10 days. Without having accommodations, without knowing any Spanish. We picked up hitchhikers, we hitchhiked ourselves sometimes. We met several swindlers who tried hard to cheat us out of money. We saw with our own eyes what life is like on Cuba. And what we saw surprised us.

If you want to see the classic Havana where time has been standing still since the revolution 1959 and where there are horses, carriages and oxcarts in the countryside instead of busses you must go there now.

Soon it will be too late.

The book offers an extensive insight into Cuba's history as well as biographical descriptions of Fidel Castro, Che Guevara, Ernest Hemingway, the former dictator Batista among others.

The book contains over 50 photographs. Many of them from Ernest Hemingway's different homes, including Finca la Vigia. Those photographs are unique and can't be seen anywhere else.
