Understanding the Plot

Arcadia unfolds in two timelines, intersecting the early 19th-century and the present day. The play takes place in the elegant estate of Sidley Park where brilliant minds and a cursed genius mathematician converge. As the plot progresses, Stoppard skillfully weaves together themes of love, desire, knowledge, and the entropic nature of the universe.

The Characters

- Hannah Jarvis: A skilled author and researcher, Hannah is passionate about unraveling the secrets of Sidley Park's inhabitants.
- Thomasina Coverly: A brilliant young girl with a talent for math beyond her years, Thomasina serves as the catalyst for uncovering lost secrets.
- Septimus Hodge: As Thomasina's tutor and a poet, Septimus provides intellectual depth while entangled in various complex relationships.
- Valentine Coverly: A modern-day mathematician, Valentine seeks to decode the mystery that Thomasina uncovered centuries earlier.
- Chloe Coverly: A lively and charming young girl, Chloe adds a touch of youthful innocence to the tale.
- The Coverly Family and Other Supporting Characters: Each character has a unique role in exploring Stoppard's themes and enhancing the play's complexity.
