The purpose of the Inspiring Figurative for Artists series is to provide study materials for the artists who are trying to master the human form. This book includes a mix of two hundred and fifty modern and vintage Female Figuratives.

In the first few decades of the twentieth century female Figurative art was caught in that dilemma between modesty and modernity. This all changed in the 1930's when a handful of artists like Picasso and Matisse made the Figurative an object of great beauty.

Figuratives are by their very nature first and foremost aesthetic. If they also reflect other sensibilities so be it! As explained in book one of the Inspiring Figuratives for Artists series, a Figurative is in balance between an artist's model and their surroundings.

A Figurative is both a creative and conscious undertaking by the artist. Producing a Figurative drawing, painting, sculpture or photograph is very much like the great Parisian photographer Brassai composing his artwork within his camera. In our point and click digital world little composition goes on and as a result there are few truly aesthetic Figuratives. Brassia could only afford an emulsion or two a week (yes he was that impoverished) and so he made every one of his photographs be meaningful.

There are a number of artist's models from the 1920's and 1930's who helped to define a modern Figurative art. Several such models are presented in this book: Clara Bow, Louise Brooks, Josephine Baker, Lee Miller and Suzi Wong.

There are many examples of Figuratives which we shall present. As you read this book think in terms of your model and their surroundings and try to compose your work in a complete and balanced fashion. This book is presented in the artistic style of Henri Matisse.
